

MARCH 23, 2024 MSU Graduate Philosophy Conference

in association with the Marxist Philosophy Circle

Philosophy, Practice, and Crisis

For critical activists and theorists, modern society has been characterized by a series of deepening and diversifying crises. Philosophers grapple with a variety of pressing crises today, yet philosophical tools often seem powerless to confront the developing contradictions of our lives. What are the tasks of philosophy in a world in crisis? What are the relationships between philosophy, activist work, and other academic work? How can practice inform philosophy?

The Michigan State University Graduate Philosophy Conference, in association with the Marxist Philosophy Circle, is now accepting 300-500 word abstracts for the hybrid modality conference to be held March 23, 2024 with the theme "Philosophy, Practice, and Crisis."

Submissions are open to graduate students, undergraduate students, and autodidacts within and beyond the discipline of philosophy.

Every practice produces a theory, and that if it is true that a revolution can fail even though it be based on perfectly conceived theories, nobody has yet made a successful revolution without a revolutionary theory.
— Amílcar Cabral

STEPHEN FERGUSON II

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Department of Philosophy and Religious Studies, North Carolina State University

Author of The Paralysis of Analysis in African American Studies: Corporate Capitalism and Black Popular Culture (2023)

JAN 5, 2024
DEADLINE FOR ABSTRACTS

For more information and to submit abstracts:
<https://bit.ly/MSUGPC24>
or use our QR code:

Thank you to our sponsors

Questions? Email us at msuphilosophyconferences@gmail.com

